Good morning,

I am not sure if I missed something but safes are usually locked because there are things stored in them that require it to be locked. This safe is my SIPR safe and I can't have it destroyed without having a replacement. Currently, I am able to get into the safe "knock on wood". Not sure if this was an old request when I did have issues getting into the safe but with a little bit of kicking and elbow grease I was able to get it working. I would say at this time I am not in need of having them to come and look at my safe.

Thanks in advance for your support and understanding.

Very Respectfully,

Hi CPT Friend
Advanced has some questions about the small vault- please see below.

Why is it locked? Was combination lost or do you have it and it's just not working?

Is this vault for a server or for storage?

If it comes down to drilling it, does it need to be reusable? Because they might have to damage the lock to get in & have replacement lock ready to go.

Is this a red label or black label container?
